

What's Next for Regulatory Compliance?

Data Privacy Laws Are Changing Faster
Than Your iOS Updates.

You can ignore TikTok trends, but not global privacy laws.

Explore

The Regulation Race = No Chill

- GDPR fines in 2025? $3.2B (CNBC).
- India's DPDP Act: 72-hour breach reports + local hosting.
- Singapore & UAE now have AI-specific privacy rules.

Reality Check: React later = pay now.

Pain Points Nobody Posts on LinkedIn

- Rules change every quarter, not every year.
- Cross-border audits are up 60% (Gartner 2025).
- Data localization just nuked your “we’ll host it anywhere” plan.

Fact Drop: Companies with compliance automation cut audits from 21 days → 72 hours (ISACA).

Move 1

Real-Time Compliance Radar

- Ditch static reports – go live dashboards for every control.
- Auto-alerts when new laws land, so you're ready before auditors DM you.

Pro Move : Make laws machine-readable so your controls update themselves.

Move 2

Privacy By Design, Not By Oops

- Build privacy into design reviews, not as audit homework.
- DPIAs (Data Protection Impact Assessments) before every launch.

Case Study : Fintech embedded DPIAs into DevOps = 47% drop in privacy incidents.

Move 3

Don't Let Your Vendors Be Your Villains

- Track vendor compliance like your own – breach blame is shared now.
- Automate attestation + evidence collection from critical suppliers.

Ponemon Fact: 53% of big breaches in 2024 started with a third-party.

Vendor Compliance Chain Success

"Our e-commerce platform works with 200+ vendors across 12 countries. Briskinfosec's automated compliance monitoring stopped a breach when one supplier failed Singapore's rules, avoiding ₹2.3 crores in penalties."
